

Crowell & Moring Advises Alto Pharmacy in Partnership with Carbon Health to Provide First COVID-19 Home Test Kits

Kits Provide Guidance to More Patients and Lessen Strain on Overburdened Clinics

Washington – March 20, 2020: Crowell & Moring advised Alto Pharmacy in its partnership with Carbon Health, the technology-enabled healthcare provider, to provide the immediate release of the first home test kits for the COVID-19 pandemic now sweeping the nation.

Carbon Health announced today that it is shipping COVID-19 home test kits to patients who feel sick and who are recommended by providers to stay at home, but wish to be tested to limit potential exposure to vulnerable people around them. The tests are currently available to patients located in California. Carbon Health plans to offer them nationwide, pending state regulations, according to the company.

The move is part of Carbon Health's effort to provide coronavirus solutions, including expanding testing availability to as many patients as possible. The home test kit is in addition to Carbon Health's larger suite of coronavirus healthcare solutions, which includes its Coronavirus Assessment Tool, free virtual care and in-clinic testing, and underscores the company's commitment to offering accessible and fully integrated healthcare.

The testing of the COVID-19 home test kit is validated and run in a CLIA-certified high complexity laboratory according to FDA and CDC guidance. "The home test kits should decrease the strain on overburdened clinics, as well as prevent non-infected people from exposing themselves to the virus by entering a clinic populated by affected patients," the company said in a press release.

Carbon Health is partnering with Curative Inc. and Alto Pharmacy on this innovative offering. Curative Inc. has developed the test kit and is providing the laboratory testing. Alto Pharmacy is providing delivery fulfillment. Alto is supporting providers moving to virtual care and partnering with hospitals, health plans and telemedicine companies to ensure patients have access to the medication and information they need without having to leave their homes.

The Crowell & Moring team that advised Alto Pharmacy was led by corporate partner Todd Rosenberg and included partner Stephanie Marcantonio and senior counsel Barbara Ryland and counsel Brandon Ge.
