

Nightingale's Healthcare News Names James R. Stuart an "Outstanding Healthcare Transaction Lawyer"

Washington, D.C. - October 1, 2009: Crowell & Moring LLP is pleased to announce that James R. Stuart, partner and chair of the firm's Corporate Group, has been named to Nightingale's Healthcare News' 2009 list of "Outstanding Healthcare Transaction Lawyers." The honor recognizes exceptional lawyers practicing in healthcare transactional law nationwide. Nightingale's Healthcare News is a newsletter for professionals serving the healthcare industry, healthcare executives, and others interested in this dynamic and complex industry. The list is featured in Nightingale's October 2009 newsletter.

Nightingale's selected Stuart for his work leading recent healthcare transactions including:

- Aetna Inc.'s ten year strategic alliance and commercial arrangement with AARP
- Aetna Inc.'s approximately $400 million acquisition of ActiveHealth Management
- Ingenix Inc.'s, a subsidiary of United Health Group, joint venture with Affiliated Computer Systems
- Aetna Inc.'s specialty pharmacy joint venture with Priority Healthcare Corporation

Additionally, Nightingale's notes that Stuart represents a major trade association in a national initiative to bring improved access to comprehensive health benefits to association members and their millions of employees across the country.

Stuart concentrates his practice on mergers, stock and asset acquisitions, joint ventures, and debt and equity financing transactions, including private placements, venture capital investments and secured credit facilities. He also has extensive experience negotiating and drafting a wide range of commercial and corporate contracts, including technology licensing, development and collaboration agreements, large scale IT hardware and software procurement agreements, management agreements, supply, distribution and manufacturing agreements, shareholder and LLC operating agreements, teaming, partnership and alliance agreements, and system integration and outsourcing arrangements.
