Crowell & Moring Releases Second Annual Litigation Forecast Report

Washington, D.C. – January 22, 2014: Crowell & Moring LLP is pleased to announce the publication of "Litigation Forecast 2014: What Corporate Counsel Need to Know in the Coming Year." The report explores critical litigation issues, provides concise, forward-looking perspectives on trends affecting a wide range of companies and industries, and identifies cases to watch in 15 areas of law including: antitrust, class actions, environmental, government contracts, labor and employment, patents, tax, trade secrets, white collar, advertising, insurance/reinsurance, e-discovery, energy, financial services, and health care. A jurisdictional analysis map is also featured in the report.

"Our second annual report follows our inaugural 2013 issue, which was well received by our clients and colleagues. We've broadened our coverage to include several industry-focused sections and offer useful insights on the unique challenges companies are facing at the intersection of litigation and regulation. Our objective is to arm our clients with information they can draw upon as we work with them to successfully navigate the increasingly complex and dynamic business environment already taking shape this year," said Kent A. Gardiner, Crowell & Moring chairman.

Twenty of the firm's attorneys contributed to the report which is available on the firm's website via the following link: Crowell.com/LitigationForecast.
