This year’s Toxic Torts and Environmental Law Seminar will feature six in-house counsel, three sitting state and federal court judges, and the president and CEO of Virgin America. The program will include an intriguing series of presentations entitled the “Anatomy of a Toxic Tort Trial.” Based on a multi-faceted toxic tort hypothetical, this five-part series will explore various elements of a toxic tort case, from early case evaluation through jury selection. It will include interactive presentations and is designed to provide concrete practice pointers and real-life “take-aways.” Whether this is your first time attending this seminar or your tenth, you will come away from this year’s program with practical “how to” information, insight into scientific principles and disciplines, and new discovery and trial practice skills. Attendees are also invited to join the DRI Toxic Torts and Environmental Law Committee’s onsite community service project Saturday morning, assembling care packages for our military men and women overseas and teddy bears for their children. Please plan to stay over in New Orleans and help with this worthwhile event.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN
- In-house counsel’s perspective on how important judicial decisions from last year are shaping their clients’ business
- Recent, significant advances in molecular epidemiology and how they will affect toxic tort litigation going forward
- Critical information about the new science surrounding a number of widely litigated chemicals at the forefront of toxic tort and environmental litigation
- How judges view medical and scientific evidence commonly involved in toxic tort cases
- The good, the bad and the ugly truth about the use of air modeling in air exposure cases
- Why case valuations can differ so widely between parties in toxic tort cases and the best strategies to evaluate, negotiate and resolve high-stakes toxic tort litigation

PRESENTED BY DRI’s Toxic Torts and Environmental Law Committee in conjunction with the American Chemistry Council

Faculty

Kevin P. Braig, a partner in Dinsmore & Shohl LLP’s Columbus, Ohio, office, focuses his practice on agricultural and environmental compliance and litigation. Mr. Braig also represents clients in matters involving regulatory issues relating to water, air, solid and hazardous waste, and underground storage tank compliance and closure.

The Honorable Harvey G. Brown was appointed to the Texas First Court of Appeals in November 2010. The Association of Civil Trial and Appellate Specialists named him Appellate Justice of the Year for 2011. Judge Brown previously presided over the 152nd District Court in Houston for six and one-half years. From 1998–2001, he served as the chief judge of the Harris County panel over diet drug cases.

Larry J. Cohen, J.D., Ph.D., a certified specialist in injury/wrongful death litigation with the Cohen Law Firm in Phoenix, focuses on medical injury and emotional damage cases. He participates in a post-doctoral program in clinical neuropsychology. Mr. Cohen teaches at the Sandra Day O’Connor College of Law at Arizona State University.

Roy Alan Cohen, a partner at Porzio Bromberg & Newman PC in Morristown, New Jersey, handles toxic tort, product liability, construction, environmental, professional liability, trucking, class action and commercial litigation matters. Mr. Cohen is a past chair of the IADC’s Toxic and Hazardous Substances Committee.

Timothy J. Coughlin, a partner in Thompson Hine LLP’s Cleveland, Ohio, office, and chair of its Mass and Toxic Tort Group, focuses his national litigation practice on mass toxic tort, product liability and commercial litigation. He is the lead counsel in national litigation involving chemical exposures and class actions. Mr. Coughlin is the program chair of this year’s seminar.

David Cush was appointed president and chief executive officer of Virgin America in December 2007. He has 22 years of management experience at some of the world’s biggest airlines. Mr. Cush has held key leadership roles overseeing all aspects of the airline business. He was named one of the Bay Area’s “Most Admired CEOs” by the San Francisco Business Times in 2009.

Silvio J. DeCarli is associate general counsel and chief litigation counsel of E.I. du Pont de Nemours and Company in Wilmington, Delaware, with responsibility for the company’s worldwide litigation. Previously, he was in charge of a varied litigation docket, with an emphasis on mass tort and class action litigation.

Sneha Desai is senior litigation counsel at BASF Corporation in Florham Park, New Jersey, the North American subsidiary of the world’s largest chemical company. She manages the company’s material litigation portfolio, counsels business clients regarding litigation risk, and oversees litigation related policies and procedures, including legal hold protocols, e-billing and e-discovery initiatives.

David G. Dodge, MS, DABT, is a board certified toxicologist with Gradient Corporation in Bend, Oregon, specializing in applied research, risk-based human health evaluations and risk communication. Mr. Dodge has characterized health risks from exposure to chemical and biological agents in products, workplaces and the environment. He has conducted detailed toxicological evaluations of various chemicals.

Peter A. Drucker is assistant general counsel—litigation in the Tarrytown, New York, office of AkzoNobel Inc., a multinational manufacturer of coatings and specialty chemicals. He manages litigation throughout North America. Previously, Mr. Drucker was in charge of litigation at Asarco Incorporated, where he was involved in some of the largest environmental and toxic tort litigations in the U.S.

The Honorable Eldon E. Fallon was appointed United States District Judge for the Eastern District of Louisiana in 1995. Judge Fallon is the author of several books and numerous law review articles. He is a member of the New Orleans, Louisiana State and American Bar Associations, the American College of Trial Lawyers and the American Law Institute.

Mark P. Fitzsimmons is a partner with Steptoe & Johnson LLP in its Washington, D.C., office and a member of its toxic torts and environmental law groups. He has tried cases alleging personal injury and property damage from exposure to various chemicals, including one cited by the National Law Journal as one of that year’s top 10 defense verdicts.
Jon P. Fryzek, Ph.D., MPH, is co-founder and director of EpidStat Institute in Gaithersburg, Maryland, an epidemiology consulting firm that specializes in addressing challenging health problems. With more than 20 years’ experience in occupational, cancer and pharmaco epidemiology, Dr. Fryzek has published over 150 peer-reviewed manuscripts, book chapters and scientific meeting abstracts.

Sherilyn A. Gross, LN, Ph.D., CCRP, is a senior health scientist with ChemRisk LLC in its Boulder, Colorado, office. Prior to joining ChemRisk, Dr. Gross was an assistant research professor at the University of Colorado, Denver, and the assistant director of clinical coordination and compliance at Fudan-Cinpathogen Clinical and Molecular Research Center at Fudan University in Shanghai, China.

Tanya D. Holcomb is chief corporate litigation counsel for Honeywell International Inc. in Morristown, New Jersey. She is responsible for managing a variety of corporate, commercial and product liability litigation. Ms. Holcomb also manages the company’s outside legal spend, as well as its litigation prevention and cost control initiatives.

The Honorable Teri L. Jackson has served as San Francisco Superior Court Judge since September 2002. She is the first African-American female judge to be appointed to the San Francisco bench. Judge Jackson currently presides over asbestos and CEQA litigation at the Civic Center Courthouse in San Francisco. She also serves as an adjunct law professor for the Hastings College of the Law in San Francisco.

John M. Johnson, founding partner of Lightfoot Franklin & White LLC in Birmingham, Alabama, is widely recognized as one of the most experienced lawyers in the South handling environmental and toxic tort litigation. He advises clients on complex mass tort litigation, class actions, pesticide and chemical litigation and individual toxic tort claims.

Kevin C. Mayer, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Crowell & Moring LLP, focuses on the litigation of complex commercial, mass tort, construction, OSHA, environmental and product liability matters. He has represented numerous clients in the oil and chemical, pharmaceutical, medical products, mining, manufacturing and other industries.

Daniel W. McGrath is a partner at Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP in Chicago. He has 25 years’ experience in the preparation and trial of product liability, toxic tort, environmental, commercial and construction litigation matters. Mr. McGrath is the chair of DRI’s Toxic Torts and Environmental Law Committee.

J. Lee Meihls, Ph.D., is president and senior consultant at Trial Partners Inc., a trial consulting and jury research firm with offices in Beverly Hills, San Francisco and Chicago. Dr. Meihls is recognized nationally for her expertise in jury selection, witness preparation and the development of effective trial strategies and graphics. She has selected over 300 juries and consulted on over 1,000 cases.

Thomas J. Olsen, a senior vice president with Chartis in Jersey City, New Jersey, is responsible for the Mass Tort Claims Department. He joined AIG in 2000 and held several positions of increasing responsibility within the Toxic Tort Department. Prior to becoming senior vice president, Mr. Olsen served as vice president of the Mainstream Units.

Lana A. Olson is a partner in Lightfoot Franklin & White LLC, a litigation-only law firm located in Birmingham, Alabama. Her practice consists of general civil defense litigation, with an emphasis on environmental and toxic torts, product liability, class actions and pharmaceutical/medical devices. She is the program vice chair of this seminar.

DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION IN DRI: A STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLE

DRI is the largest international membership organization of attorneys defending the interests of business and individuals in civil litigation.

Diversity is a core value at DRI. Indeed, diversity is fundamental to the success of the organization, and we seek out and embrace the innumerable benefits and contributions that the perspectives, backgrounds, cultures, and life experiences a diverse membership provides.

Inclusiveness is the chief means to increase the diversity of DRI’s membership and leadership positions. DRI’s members and potential leaders are often also members and leaders of other defense organizations. Accordingly, DRI encourages all national, state, and local defense organizations to promote diversity and inclusion in their membership and leadership.
DRI wishes to thank our sponsors for their support at this year’s seminar!
