

Law360 Aerospace & Defense Editorial Advisory Board

Law360, New York (March 10, 2015, 4:39 PM ET) -- Law360 is pleased to announce the formation of its 2015 Aerospace & Defense editorial advisory board.

The purpose of the editorial advisory board is to get feedback on Law360's coverage and to gain insight from experts in the field on how best to shape future coverage.

The members of the 2015 Aerospace & Defense Law360 editorial advisory board are:

Kurt Hamrock, McKenna Long & Aldridge LLP

Kurt Hamrock is a litigation partner with McKenna Long & Aldridge. For more than 20 years, he has counseled government contractors and represented them in disputes with the federal government and third parties. He has particular expertise handling issues arising from the performance of classified and nonclassified defense contracts in contingency environments.

Sarah Maguire, BAE Systems

Sarah Maguire is assistant general counsel for BAE Systems for litigation and investigations. In this capacity, Maguire focuses on the major matters facing the corporation, including commercial disputes, internal investigations and government investigations. Prior to joining BAE Systems, Maguire was in private practice, where she represented clients on government contracts and white collar matters.

Stephen McBrady, Crowell & Moring LLP

Steve McBrady is a partner in Crowell & Moring's government contracts group, where he advises aerospace and defense companies on a range of federal, state and international procurement matters. In addition to cost allowability issues under the FAR cost principles and the Cost Accounting Standards, McBrady regularly represents clients in government contracts litigation before the boards of contract appeals and state and federal courts around the country.

Robert Metzger, Rogers Joseph O'Donnell PC

Bob Metzger heads the Washington, D.C., office of RJO. He represents leading aerospace, defense and information technology companies in government contracts and commercial matters. He is a recognized thought leader in cyber and supply chain assurance, international defense transactions, security assistance programs, offsets and ethics in international business. A widely published author on security and procurement matters, Metzger was a research fellow at Harvard's Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs.

Kenneth Quinn, Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP

Ken Quinn is a partner and head of Pillsbury's top-ranked aviation, aerospace and transportation practice and its unmanned aircraft systems focus team. He has served on the governing committee and as general counsel and secretary of the flight safety foundation since 2004. He was chief counsel of the Federal Aviation Administration from 1991 to 1993 and served as counselor to the secretary of transportation from 1989 to 1991.

Susan Schneider Thomas, Berger & Montague PC

Susan Thomas is a shareholder at Berger & Montague and a senior member of the firm's whistleblower and qui tam group. She represents clients in a wide range of whistleblower suits, spanning the health care, defense contracting, environmental and education fields. Thomas frequently blogs about qui tam matters and presented a CLE entitled "Whistleblowers: Paragons or Pariahs" dealing with some of the emotional and employment issues faced by clients.
