

Law360 International Trade Editorial Advisory Board

Law360, New York (February 21, 2014, 1:49 PM ET) -- Law360 is pleased to announce the formation of its 2014 International Trade editorial advisory board.

The purpose of the editorial advisory board is to get feedback on Law360's coverage and to gain insight from experts in the field on how best to shape future coverage.

The members of the 2014 International Trade Law360 editorial advisory board are:

John B. Brew, Crowell & Moring LLP

Crowell & Moring international trade group partner John Brew focuses his practice on customs. With experience in trade regulation, he advises corporations, trade associations and foreign governments on customs administration, enforcement, compliance, litigation and legislation. Brew represents clients on administrative and judicial levels as well as before Congress and trade-related international bureaucracies.

Guillermo Christensen, Baker Botts LLP

Guillermo Christensen counsels clients in Foreign Corrupt Practices Act matters, Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States reviews and international trade compliance, drawing on his prior service as a CIA officer and with the U.S. Department of State, most recently serving as the science and technology adviser to the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development in Paris. He is member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

Jill Cramer, Mowry & Grimson PLLC

Jill Cramer, a partner with Mowry & Grimson, represents foreign and domestic companies in anti-dumping and countervailing duty proceedings before federal agencies and U.S. courts. Her practice also focuses on assisting clients with customs investigations and audits and developing customs, export controls, sanctions and FCPA compliance programs for companies around the globe.

Margaret Gatti, Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP

Margaret M. Gatti is a partner in Morgan Lewis' international trade and economic sanctions practice. She represents U.S. and non-U.S. businesses across various industries regarding worldwide application of international trade laws, including import and export controls and extraterritorial jurisdiction of the Office of Foreign Assets Control's sanction programs. Gatti assists clients with compliance policies, due diligence reviews and training.

Corey Norton, Keller & Heckman LLP

Corey Norton helps companies comply with laws regarding export controls, economic sanctions, customs matters, bribery and foreign boycotts. He is particularly interested in the chemicals, electronics and machinery industries. Norton is a vice chair of the American Bar Association's Export Controls and Economic Sanctions Committee and is active in other relevant organizations.

Beth Peters, Hogan Lovells

Beth Peters is a co-director of the firm's international trade and investment practice. For over 20 years, she has advised clients on a variety of international trade matters, including export control laws, sanctions laws, customs laws, and the Patriot Act, including complicated compliance, licensing, deemed export and enforcement matters. Peters is the co-chair of the D.C. Bar's International Trade Committee.

Ted Posner, Weil Gotshal & Manges LLP

Theodore Posner, a partner in Weil's international arbitration and trade practice, draws on over 15 years of experience as a litigator, negotiator and adviser in the areas of international trade and investment, including in the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative, the National Security Council, and the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

David Schwartz, Thompson Hine LLP

David Schwartz is a partner in Thompson Hine's international trade and customs practice group. He advises clients on the risks and opportunities presented by international trade laws, regulations and agreements. He focuses on trade remedy litigation, international trade policy and cross-border compliance issues affecting goods, services, technology and investments that involve transportation, customs, export controls, economic sanctions, anti-boycott and anti-bribery laws and regulations.

Melvin Schwechter, BakerHostetler

Mel Schwechter is a partner in BakerHostetler's Washington, D.C., office and is the firm's national team leader for its international trade-compliance practice group. He represents manufacturing, distribution and financial institution clients on customs, export control, trade and financial sanctions and embargoes, and matters related to the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States. He has been recognized by Chambers USA and the "Who's Who Legal 100."

William B.F. Steinman, Steinman & Rodgers LLP

Bill Steinman is the senior partner at Steinman & Rodgers LLP, a boutique law firm in Washington, D.C., specializing in Foreign Corrupt Practices Act matters. He regularly assists clients regarding a wide range of FCPA matters, including internal investigations, the development of risk-based compliance programs and the review of overseas intermediaries.

J. Michael Taylor, King & Spalding LLP

J. Michael Taylor, a partner with King & Spalding, represents manufacturing clients in international trade remedy proceedings, including in administrative and appellate litigation concerning anti-dumping and countervailing duty actions. He counsels clients on regulatory trade compliance issues concerning customs matters, including in audits, internal investigations and prior disclosures.