Law360 Tax Editorial Advisory Board

Law360, New York (March 10, 2015, 3:39 PM ET) -- Law360 is pleased to announce the formation of its 2015 Tax editorial advisory board.

The purpose of the editorial advisory board is to get feedback on Law360's coverage and to gain insight from experts in the field on how best to shape future coverage.

The members of the 2015 Tax Law360 editorial advisory board are:

Elizabeth Atkinson, LeClairRyan
Elizabeth Atkinson represents businesses and individuals in tax controversy and planning. She advises employers on the Affordable Care Act and taxable and non-taxable fringe benefit plans and speaks to groups regarding offers in compromise, entity formation, state taxes and 1031 exchanges. She also leads the Community Tax Law Project Advisory Board.

Michael S. Fried, Fried & Rosefelt LLC
Michael Fried is one of the founding members of Fried & Rosefelt, LLC, a law firm focused on representing taxpayers with serious tax problems. Fried has an LLM in Tax from New York University Law School and has three decades of experience helping clients solve their U.S. and international tax problems. He has been published in leading national tax publications and frequently speaks to professional organizations about current tax issues.

Linda Galler, Curtis Mallet-Prevost and Hofstra University School of Law
Linda Galler is Professor of Law at the Maurice A. Deane School of Law at Hofstra University and senior tax counsel at Curtis Mallet-Prevost Colt & Mosle. She is co-author of “Regulation of Tax Practice,” published by LexisNexis, and a frequent speaker on tax ethics. She practices in the areas of international taxation, corporate taxation, administrative practice and court procedure.

Richard Husseini, Baker Botts LLP
Richard Husseini, a partner with Baker Botts in its Houston office, chairs the firmwide tax department. His practice is focused primarily on federal tax controversy and litigation. He advocates on behalf of large companies and high-net-worth individuals nationwide in administrative, arbitration and court proceedings, with a particular focus on taxpayers in the energy and technology sectors.

Bradley Marsh, Greenberg Traurig LLP
Bradley R. Marsh is a state and local tax attorney at Greenberg Traurig. He represents clients in audits, governmental relations, litigation, planning and transactional matters. He is an adjunct professor at Golden Gate University School of Law's tax master of laws program and chair of the Executive Committee of the Taxation Section of the State Bar of California.
Mary McNulty, Thompson & Knight LLP
Mary McNulty is a tax partner in Thompson & Knight’s Dallas office. She represents taxpayers in IRS audits, appeals, and tax litigation and specializes in federal tax procedural issues, partnership audits and partnership tax issues relating to private equity, energy, real estate and exempt organizations.

Arthur V. Pearson, Murphy Pearson Bradley & Feeney
Arthur V. Pearson practices accounting and tax malpractice defense, as well as tax and business transactions. His broad experience in taxation issues, combined with years of successfully representing clients in jury trials, instills confidence and trust in his ability to successfully resolve complex tax issues. Pearson is not afraid to advocate aggressive handling of underlying tax issues in order to facilitate claim resolution prior to extensive discovery or trial.

Jennifer Ray, Crowell & Moring LLP
Jennifer A. Ray is a partner in Crowell & Moring’s Tax Group in Washington, D.C. She advises clients across a number of industries on tax aspects of corporate and partnership transactions, tax planning matters, and executive compensation and employee benefit issues.

Joseph A. Riley, Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP
Joseph A. Riley is a partner in the tax department at Willkie Farr & Gallagher. He focuses on the taxation of investment funds, including hedge funds, offshore funds and mutual funds, both U.S. and non-U.S. His practice includes taxation of securities and other financial instruments, international tax advising, the U.S. Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act, withholding taxes, tax reporting for investors in investment funds, IRS assistance, and other associated tax issues faced by investment managers.

Melissa Wiley, Ernst & Young LLP
Melissa Wiley is an assistant general counsel at Ernst & Young LLP, where she supports the firm’s tax practice. Prior to joining EY in 2013, Melissa was an attorney at Skadden Arps Slate Meagher & Flom LLP, where she focused her practice on tax litigation and controversy matters.

L. Frederick Williams, Steptoe & Johnson PLLC
Fred Williams is a member at Steptoe & Johnson PLLC. His practice focuses on tax issues associated with oil and gas transactions, partnerships, domestic M&A transactions, public finance and state taxation. He also has extensive tax controversy experience.
